

Patterns of Dispossession in Canada's Reception of Refugees

Philip Ackerman

This paper explores the experiences for diverse refugee youth populations under the social condition of exclusion, racialization and criminalization, which perpetuate their marginalization upon arrival in Canada. An analysis of the history of mass arrivals of refugees to Canada, including the current commitment to resettle 25,000 Syrian refugees, reveals patterns that caution potentially deleterious impacts for newly-arrived populations, including youth. Through this analysis, the paper shows how dominant racist and misogynist ideologies permeate and shape the experiences of refugee youth as they attempt to navigate their various immigration and settlement processes. This exploration reveals how the state and the social service sector interconnect at multiple points to shape a hostile climate of reception and equitable participation in Canadian society. In fact, the services, policies and practices by the settlement sector in many ways expand on and duplicate the harsh ideological conditions of immigration control. As such, refugee youth experience marginalization and exclusion as they search for housing, employment, education, health or mental health services.

Through a careful discussion of each of these areas the paper shows how deterrent borders are reconstructed at multiple necessary entrance points into Canadian society. These borders perpetuate the extensive 'othering' of migrant bodies, which manifests through moments of gross underhousing, inequitable education experiences, limited access to appropriate healthcare and exploitative experiences in the labour market. The exclusion and dispossession of refugee youth emerge through direct service delivery, funding structures as well as wider sector trends that commodify and hierarchize one group of refugees over the other. Thus, the various processes that youth are required to navigate are saturated with exclusionary, disengaging and predatory moments, contributing to the racialization, criminalization and radicalization of them. Although policy interventions are happening to respond to these disparities and promote a more equitable social and civic engagement of refugee youth, more needs to be done to invoke a more inclusive, feminist, and anti-racist praxis in the historical context of refugee reception. Despite emerging efforts to promote meaningful dialogue in the settlement sector, this paper illustrates how racism and anti-migrant sentiments continue to dominate the settlement and integration experiences of refugee youth. To provide a robust analysis throughout this paper, the discussion will be informed by a thorough literature review, and influenced by the author's own frontline experience working at a community-based, grassroots organization in Toronto. Through this approach, we can better understand how we need to collectively acknowledge and address the manifold issues impacting refugee youth, and counter dominant ideology and negative rhetoric on refugees to ignite meaningful and positive change.

References

- Anisef, P. (1994). Learning and sociological profiles of Canadian high school students: An overview of 15 to 18 year olds and educational policy implications for dropouts, exceptional students, employed students, immigrant students, and native youth. Lewiston, Quesnton: Edwin Mellen Press.
- Apple, M. W. (2004). Ideology and curriculum. New York, NY: Routledge.
- Bannerji, H. (2005). Building from Marx: Reflections on class and race. Social Justice, 32(4) (102), 144-160.
- Bauder, H. (2005). Habitus, rules of the labour market and employment strategies of immigrants in Vancouver, Canada. Social & Cultural Geography, 6(1), 81-97.
- Beaudoin, J. (1894). Challenging essentialized representations of Romani identities in Canada (Unpublished doctoral dissertation). The University of Western Ontario, Canada.
- Beiser, M. N., & Hou, F. (2006). Ethnic identity, resettlement stress and depressive affect among Southeast Asian refugees in Canada. Social Science & Medicine, 63(1), 137-150.
- Beiser, M., & Hyman, I. (1997). Southeast Asian refugees in Canada. Ethnicity, Immigration, and psychopathology, 35-56.
- Bhuyan, R. (2012). Negotiating citizenship on the frontlines: How the devolution of Canadian immigration policy shapes service delivery to women fleeing abuse. Law & Policy, 34(2), 211-236.
- Carter, T. S., & White, S. E. (2003). New CCRA policy statement on political activities. Charity Law Bulletin, 25.
- Centre for Equity Rights in Accommodation (CERA). (2009). Sorry, it's rented: Measuring discrimination in Toronto's rental housing market. Toronto: CERA.
- Chandler, C. (2015). The hierarchy of refugee stories. Africa is a Country. Retrieved from <http://africasacountry.com/2015/02/the-hierarchy-of-refugee-stories/>
- Cowart, M.T., & Cowart, R. E. (1993). Southeast Asian refugee youth and the cycle of violence. Nassp Bulletin, 77(557), 41-45.
- Daniels, C. (1997). The paradoxes of state power. In C. Daniels, R. Brooks, P. De Soto, E. Felter, S. Marshal, L. Naranch & A. Sparks (Eds.), Feminists negotiate the state: The politics of domestic violence (pp. 1-5). Lanham, MD: Univ. Press of America.

- DaSilva, M. (2016). Tolerant Toronto? Think again. Attacks on Muslim Women are on the rise. NOW Magazine. Retrieved from <https://nowtoronto.com/news/tolerant-toronto-think-again-attacks-on-muslim-women-on-the-rise/>
- Davis, A. (2008). A vocabulary for feminist praxis: On war and radical critique. In R. L. Riley, C. T. Mohanty & M. B. Pratt (Eds.), Feminism and war: Confronting US imperialism (pp. 19-26). London: Zed Books.
- Dench, J. (2007). A hundred years of immigration to Canada 1900-1999: A chronology. Focusing on refugees and discrimination. Canadian Council for Refugees.
- Ellis, B.H., MacDonald, H.Z., Lincoln, A.K., & Cabral, H.J. (2008). Mental health of Somali adolescent refugees: The role of trauma, stress, and perceived discrimination. Journal of Consulting and Clinical Psychology, 76(2), 184- 193.
- FCJ Youth Network. (2015). From youth to you. Retrieved from <http://www.fcjrefugeecentre.org/2014/03/fromyouthtoyou/>
- FCJ Youth Network. (2016). Uprooted Education: 2015-2016 report, Ontario. Retrieved from http://www.fcjrefugeecentre.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/02/Report-Card\_webFinal\_2016.pdf
- Forman, M. (2001). 'Straight Outta Mogadishu': Prescribed identities and performative practices among Somali youth in North American high schools. TOPIA: Canadian Journal of Cultural Studies, 5, 33-60.
- Galabuzi, G. E., & Teelucksingh, C. (2010). Social cohesion, social exclusion, social capital. Region of Peel, Human Services.
- Haddad, M. (2010). Addressing extremism from within: Internal Muslim activism working to curb radicalism among Muslims youth in Canada. The Laurier MA Journal of Religion and Culture, 2, 15-38.
- Hammer, T. (Ed.). (1985). European immigration policy: A comparative study. Cambridge: Cambridge Univ. Press.
- Hiebert, D., & Sherrell, K. (2009). The integration and inclusion of newcomers in British Columbia. Metropolis British Columbia, Centre of Excellence for Research on Immigration and Diversity.
- Hulchanski, D. J. (1993). Barriers to equal access in the housing market: The role of discrimination on the basis of race and gender [Report]. Ontario Human Rights Commission.
- Hulchanski, J. D. (1994). Discrimination in Ontario's rental housing market: The role of minimum income criteria. University of Toronto and University of York: Housing New Canadians Research Working Group.

- Jasinskaja-Lahti, I., & Liebkind, K. (2001). Perceived discrimination and psychological adjustment among Russian-speaking immigrant adolescents in Finland. International Journal of psychology, 36(3), 174-185.
- Kilbride, K. M., Anisef, P., Baichman-Anisef, E., & Khattar, R. (2000). Between two worlds: The experiences and concerns of immigrant youth in Ontario. Toronto: CERIS and CIC-OASIS.
- Korn, A. (2016). Client support services, family support services [Presentation].
- Krahn, H., & Taylor, A. (2005). Resilient teenagers: Explaining the high educational aspirations of visible-minority youth in Canada. Journal of International Migration and Integration/Revue de l'integration et de la migration internationale, 6(3-4), 405-434.
- Makwarimba, E., Stewart, M., Simich, L., Makumbe, K., Shizha, E., & Anderson, S. (2013). Sudanese and Somali refugees in Canada: Social support needs and preferences. International Migration, 51(5), 106-119.
- McLaren, P. (2003). Critical pedagogy: A look at the major concepts. In A. Darder, M. P. Baltodano & R. D. Torres (Eds.), The critical pedagogy reader, (pp.61-83). New York, NY: Routledge.
- Murdie, R. A. (2008). Pathways to housing: The experiences of sponsored refugees and refugee claimants in accessing permanent housing in Toronto. Journal of International Migration and Integration/Revue de l'integration et de la migration internationale, 9(1), 81-101.
- Murdie, R. A., Chambon, A., Hulchanski, J. D., & Teixeira, C. (1996). Housing issues facing immigrants and refugees in greater Toronto: Initial findings from the Jamaican, Polish and Somali communities. Housing Question of the Others. Ankara: Chamber of Architects of Turkey.
- Ng, R., & Shan, H. (2010). Lifelong learning as ideological practice: An analysis from the perspective of immigrant women in Canada. International Journal of Lifelong Education, 29(2), 169-184.
- Neupane, D. R. (2012). Finding a new Job in a new Home: The labour market experiences of government assisted refugees in Canada. Theses and dissertations. Paper 1448.
- Noh, S., Beiser, M., Kaspar, V., Hou, F., & Rummens, J. (1999). Perceived racial discrimination, depression, and coping: A study of Southeast Asian refugees in Canada. Journal of health and social behavior, 193-207.
- OCASI. (2012). Making Ontario home: A study of settlement and integration services for immigrants and refugees. Retrieved from http://www.ocasi.org/downloads/OCASI\_MOH\_ENGLISH.pdf

- OCASI. (2016). OCASI's anti-Islamophobia, xenophobia, and racism campaign pushes Torontonians to examine their beliefs. Retrieved from <http://www.ocasi.org/ocasi's-anti-islamophobia-xenophobia-and-racism-campaign-pushes-torontonians-examine-their-beliefs>
- Omidvar, R., Richmond, T., & Laidlaw Foundation. (2003). Immigrant settlement and social inclusion in Canada. Toronto, ON: Laidlaw Foundation.
- Ouellet, E., Warmington, A., & Yu, S. (2007). Refugee integration in Canada: A survey of empirical evidence and existing services. Refuge, 24(2), 17–34.
- Oxman-Martinez, J., Rummens, A. J., Moreau, J., Choi, Y. R., Beiser, M., Ogilvie, L., & Armstrong, R. (2012). Perceived ethnic discrimination and social exclusion: Newcomer immigrant children in Canada. American Journal of Orthopsychiatry, 82(3), 376-388.
- Paradis, E., Novac, S., Sarty, M., & Hulchanski, D.J. (2009). Better off in a shelter? A year of homelessness and housing among status immigrant, non-status migrant and Canadian-born families. In D.J. Hulchanski, P. Campsie, S.B. Chau, S.H. Hwang & E. Paradis (Eds.), Finding home: Policy options for addressing homelessness in Canada. Toronto, ON: University of Toronto.
- Phinney, J. S., & Devich-Navarro, M. (1997). Variations in bicultural identification among African American and Mexican American adolescents. Journal of Research on Adolescence, 7(1), 3-32.
- Quayyum, A., Burstein, M., (2014). Agency of the future report by the information and communications technology committee. Retrieved from <http://p2pcanada.ca/files/2015/01/AoF-Technology-Task-Force-Report.pdf>
- Richmond, A. H. (2001). Refugees and racism in Canada. Refuge: Canada's Journal on Refugees, 19(6), 12-20.
- Rico-Martinez, F., Rico, L., Ackerman, P. (2012). Refugee houses: Addressing the immediate housing needs of refugees in Toronto. Unsettled settlers: Barriers to integration, 253-276.
- Ryan, L., & Woodill, J. (2000). A search for home: Refugee voices in the Romero House Community. Toronto, ON: Maytree Foundation.
- Shahsiah, S., & Yee, J. Y. (2006). Striving for best practices and equitable mental healthcare access for racialised communities in Toronto.
- Shakya, Y. B., Guruge, S., Hynie, M., Akbari, A., Malik, M., Htoo, S., Khogali, A., Mona, S. A., Murtaza, R. & Alley, S. (2012). Aspirations for higher education among newcomer refugee youth in Toronto: Expectations, challenges, and strategies. Refuge: Canada's Journal on Refugees, 27(2), 65-87.
- Shakya, Y. B., Khanlou, N., & Gonsalves, T. (2010). Determinants of mental health for newcomer youth: Policy and service implications. Canadian Issues, 98-102.

- Sherrel, K., D'Addario, S., & Hiebert, D. (2007). On the outside looking in: The precarious housing situation of successful refugee claimants in the GVRD. Refuge, 24(2), 64–75.
- Smith, D. E. (1987). The everyday world as problematic: A feminist sociology. Toronto, ON: University of Toronto Press.
- Toronto Youth Equity Strategy. (2014). Toronto Youth Equity Strategy: Building resilience and supportive systems. Retrieve from <https://www1.toronto.ca/City%20Of%20Toronto/Social%20Development,%20Finance%20&%20Administration/Attachment%201%20-%20TYES%20Creative%20Report.pdf>
- Tseghay, D. & Yohannes, K. (2016). No place like home for the “go-home blacks”. Africa is a Country. Retrieved from: <http://africasacountry.com/2016/05/no-place-like-home-for-the-go-home-blacks/>
- Zine, J. (2001). Muslim youth in Canadian schools: Education and the politics of religious identity. Anthropology & Education Quarterly, 32(4), 399-423.